New Sanitation District Formed In Torrance-South Bay Regions

Gardena, Torrance, and the South Bay communities have been organized into a new environmental sanitation district of the Los Angeles County Health Dept., announced Dr. B. A. Kogan, district health officer.

Offices for the newly formed sanitation area will be in the Torrance Health Center, 2300 W. Carson St. The cities of Gardena, Redondo Beach, Torrance, Hermosa Beach, Manhattan Beach, Palos Verdes Estates, Rolling Hills, and Rolling Hills Estates and the surrounding unincorporated areas will be served from this office. SERVICES of inspectors are available for sanitation problems pertaining to dairies, food, food processing and restaurants, drugs, rodents, insects, water, sewerage, and other matters involving sanitary supervision. An estimated 25,000 field visits and inspections will be made this year by the five general sanitarians and the four special inspectors. Norman J. Michiels was named as chief area sanitarian. For the past five years he was senior sanitarian for the Compton-Torrance sanitation area. Michiels—who resides at 21321 Talisman St. with his wife, Pat, and three sons, Christy, John, and Tom—started his official duties on Oct. 16.

SINCE 1956 he has served on the fringe benefit committee of the Los Angeles County Employees Assn. He is also, at this time, the vice president of the National Assn. of Sanitarians. Bill R. Simons, senior sanitarian, has been assigned to the Torrance area. Simons joined the county in 1954 as a social worker. Since then he has been a communicable disease investigator and a staff sanitarian.

ACCORDING to Michiels, the most time-consuming job in the area is the constant supervision of the more than 650 food processing plants, retail food markets, and restaurants. Keeping the food supply of the community safe to eat is no small task, he says.

Other inspections which are most frequently needed are the checking of fly and mosquito breeding conditions, animal

Insurance Plan For Blue Stamps

Six hundred neighborhood food markets, drug stores, and service stations have joined in the new trading stamp-for insurance program by which an automobile driver's accident and hospital policy can be obtained for three books of Blue Chip stamps, it was announced today.

Richard Fishell, president of the Trading Stamp Insurance Division, said that applications for the insurance and mailers sanitation, housing conditions, and insanitary premises.

for stamp books are available at the following area markets: Safeway, Market Basket, Food Giant, Shoppers, Lucky Stores, Boys, and independent groceries.

The policy provides $150 a month for disability resulting from an accident while driving or riding in a car, bus or truck, an additional $500 for hospital expenses and $2,500 for loss of life.

Three books afford six months' coverage. A full year's coverage can be secured for three more books.

College Homecoming Parade Scheduled on Veterans Day

Lovely girls and beautiful floats will rival with one another for beauty honors in El Camino College's traditional Homecoming Parade Nov. 11 at Murdock Stadium.

Began in 1950, the Homecoming Parade is one of the most colorful events staged by the college. An average of 12 floats are entered by campus organizations in competition for divisional and sweepstakes awards.

HONORS ARE given in three divisions: special interest clubs, sororities, and fraternities. A separate sweepstakes award is presented to the one most outstanding float.

"Let Freedom Ring" is the parade theme for 1961-62. Eddie Wood, float chairman, has announced that float applications are now available to campus clubs and organizations.

Members of groups submitting entries will work Friday night, Nov. 10, and Saturday morning constructing them.

Floats must have metal frames and be constructed from wood, chicken wire and crepe paper. No cut flowers are permitted.

THE HOMECOMING Queen and her two princesses will ride in convertibles driven by their escorts. Homecoming royalty will be selected by a panel of judges on Tuesday.

Among past themes of the parade have been, "Famous Scenes of History" (1954), "Folklore and Fairy Tales" (1957), "The Seven Seas" (1958), and "Popular Tunes" (1960).
